What is a cookie?

A cookie is a small file that a website transfers to the cookie file of the browser on your computer's hard disk so that the website can remember who you are. We use them to help you navigate our website efficiently and perform certain functions.

Purpose and use

We use cookies to help you navigate our website efficiently and perform certain functions.

By using our website you allow us to use cookies and various other web analytics tools such as Search Engine Optimization (SEO) for the purpose of analyzing the use of our website. This allows us to further enhance our website and provide you with the best service possible.

Type of cookies

We use the following cookies:

Necessary cookies: These are cookies that allow you to use our website in a normal way. Examples of necessary cookies are so-called 'session cookies' which allows us to check if your device for example supports JavaScript.

Analytical/performance cookies: This type of cookies allows us to recognize and count the number of visitors and to see how visitors move around our website when they are using it. This helps us to improve the way our website works, for example, by ensuring that users are finding what they are looking for easily. IP addresses are collected for this purpose under the strict limitation that we nor any third party involved in analyzing the website usage (such as for example Google) associates your IP address with any other data, link, or seek to link, an IP address with the identity of a computer user or associates any data with any personal data.

Traffic log cookies: This type of cookies allows us to identify which pages are being used. This helps us analyze data about web page traffic and improve our website in order to tailor it to customer needs. We only use this information for statistical analysis purposes and then the data is removed from the system.

Overall, cookies help us provide you with a better website, by enabling us to monitor which pages you find useful and which are not as relevant. A cookie in no way gives us access to your computer or any information about you, other than the data you choose to share with us.

Please note that third parties (including, for example, advertising networks and providers of external services like web traffic analysis services) may also use cookies, over which we have no control. These cookies are likely to be analytical/performance cookies or targeting cookies.

For a complete overview on the cookies we use, their purpose, the applicable storage terms and file name please see below.
